Image guided therapy

Unlimited imaging flexibility. Exceptional patient care.

More flexibility in imaging and staff positioning can elevate your interventional care. Empowered by our Axsys motion control system, Philips Azurion with FlexArm is a revolutionary approach to image guided therapy that allows you to choose the best position to perform complex interventions and easily access the patient, without moving the patient table. Perform smooth radial access on fully extended arms without table pivots. Get 2D and 3D images from head to toe, from both sides of the table.
